Miss Allsbrook Entertains.

Miss Dora Allsbrook entertained a number of young friends at her home on South Greenwood street, on Monday evening at hours from 9:00 to 11:30 o'clock by playing several interesting games. Music was not given as expected on the account of rain in afternoon.

About 10:30 the guests were rushed to the dining room where dainty refreshments were served, the dining room was beautifully decorated, the table was set with crepe set of decoration of violets, and each one was presented with a little remembrance card which was given by Miss Allsbrook with violets. Those participating were: Misses Nellie Register, Daisy Allsbrook, Pauline Herring, Irene Wright, Millicent Wilkinson, of Roanoke Rapids, Dora Allsbrook, and Ruth Allsbrook. Messrs. J. C. Jacobs, Willie Parks, Henry Moore, Harvey Britt, J. G. Madry, C. N. Madry, B. Lewis, William Allsbrook, G. W. Register, and Collin Register.

All seemed to have a real jolly time and left with a glad smile as if to say where will the next entertainment be.

Traveling Men's Experience.

"In the summer of 1888 I had a very severe attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from 4 a. m. to 6 p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph my family. Instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitute. I took a double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable everywhere.

Gives Splendid Service.

The following very complimentary letter by a citizen of Scotland Neck appeared in the June number of The Carolina Bulletin, a monthly publication by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, regarding the splendid telephone service given the people of Scotland Neck and community by the local manager, Mr. B. F. Weaver and his efficient corps of operators and assistants:

"I notice in May Bulletin an article, 'Wilson Service', and in this connection I wish to say that while I do not doubt that Wilson is getting good service, I do doubt that they are getting the service that the subscribers of Scotland Neck are getting. I have been in position for the past twelve years to know that our service is one of the best, if not the best, service in the State, and the subscribers certainly appreciate the efforts of the entire force. I have never heard of but one complaint in the past ten years and that was not justified by the evidence.

"In appreciation of your efforts I feel compelled to advise you, that you may know the public thanks you for the service given, and if you so desire you may send this letter to the Bulletin for publication, that the other exchanges may see what we are getting in Scotland Neck, and too, try to have a pleased public behind them."

Captured a Barrel of Booze.

Chief of Police R. H. Gray brought his Sherlock Holmes proclivities into play some days ago when he got on to the fact that a whole barrel of booze had been delivered to a drayman at the Atlantic Coast Line depot. Mr. Gray quietly sought out the aforesaid drayman and elicited from him that the booze had been delivered to Ben Staton, a negro who has on several occasions been pulled for selling whiskey but always through some technicality been able to escape punishment.

Mr. Gray went to the home of Ben, who was away, and placed a guard on duty while he came down town to get a search warrant. Armed with the necessary papers he returned and found Staton at home, who very readily told the officer that the barrel was in his lot and showed him where it was, saying that the boys had put it over on him.

The Chief sampled the contents of the barrel, which was shipped from Pinner Point, Va., to Tim Smith, being labeled "apple cider" and the bill of lading marked "N. B." Finding it contained about 60 gallons of the best grade of rye, Mr. Gray hailed a passing drayman and had the barrel taken to the town lock-up where he placed a guard to prevent some thirsty soul from removing the much coveted booze under cover of the night.

At the time of going to press there have been no arrest made, owing to the absence of the mayor.

Suicide at Parmele.

Mr. C. L. Trainham, a lineman of the Western Union Telegraph Company, whose headquarters were at Parmele, took his life Wednesday night about twelve o'clock on the railroad near the junction at Parmele.

Mr. Trainham had been living at Parmele about three years. He was about 25 years of age and had been married a year. He was married to Miss Malena Ward, of Parmele. Apparently Mr. Trainham was in normal condition, but of late he had been drinking to some extent. It is reported that he had told his wife that if he ever got drunk again he would kill himself. On the night of the tragedy his wife learned that he had been drinking. About eleven o'clock he left the house and went out on the railroad and was followed by his wife. Mr. Trainham informed Mrs. Trainham that he was going to take his life and for about one hour his wife pleaded with him to return to their home and desist from his threats. While Mrs. Trainham had her arms thrown around him pleading with him he fired two shots from an automatic 25 calibre Colts and then deliberately placed the muzzle of the weapon over his left breast and fired a bullet through his heart.

Mr. Trainham was a native of Gordonsville, Va., and his remains were shipped to his home for burial. —Robersonville Herald.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, the Board of School Trustees of the Roanoke Rapids School District have received the resignation of Mr. A. E. Akers as Superintendent of the Roanoke Rapids Graded Schools, and

Whereas, this Board feels that they are compelled to accept the said resignation, because they recognize the greater sphere of educational work and the greater opportunity for service in the cause of education in which Mr. Akers will now engage, and

Whereas, the said Board considers the service Mr. Akers has rendered the Roanoke Rapids Graded Schools as being faithful even to details, efficient, practical and in every degree praiseworthy.

Be it resolved, that the members of this Board individually and collectively sincerely regret the severing of Mr. Akers connection with our schools and wish him in his new field of endeavor the success which his talents, ability and faithfulness so unquestionably deserve.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Board of School Trustees and a copy sent to the Roanoke Rapids Herald for publication.

Married at Halifax.

On Sunday, July 11th, Mr. Kelly A. Allsbrook and Miss Alice Braxton were married at Halifax. The couple had kept the approaching event a profound secret from their friends, and on Sunday morning they boarded the northbound train with "never a word" as to their ultimate destination and intention.

Arriving at the ancient county seat, a license was secured and the venerable Judge Clark was called upon and tied the nuptial knot at the Roanoke Hotel in the presence of a few friends and guests at the hotel.

They returned on the afternoon train, and it was not until sometime after they arrived home that the "cat was let out of the bag" and the secret became known.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Braxton, and the groom is one of the capable assistants at the municipal electric light and power plant, both being well known and popular among their friends who join in extending to them their heartiest congratulations and good wishes.

Used a Brick With Effect.

Some days ago the mother of Nick Smith, a colored man who conducts a store at Mary's Chapel, went in the store for Nick to read a letter for her. Nick started to do as his mother requested, but when he began to read he found it was for the mother of John Smith, who has the same cognomen. Nick immediately sent the letter to its rightful owner and thought no more of it.

When John learned that his mother's letter had been opened by unlawful hands, his ire was kindled and he went on the war path. Going to Nick's store he demanded an explanation. Nick explained the circumstance, but this failed to satisfy John, and after getting out of the store, he hurled a brick at Nick through the window, cutting an ugly gash just above the right eye.

Nick immediately sought the services of a physician who found it necessary to take three stitches and give the eye careful treatment to save the sight.

It is said that John after doing the mischief and seeing the results fled to other parts.
